

YALE FOX INTERNATIONAL FELLOWSHIP

What is the Fox International Fellowship?

- It is a graduate student exchange program between Yale and world-renowned partner universities.

What do Fox International Fellows do?

- Undertake independent research in one of the designated fields for an academic year at one of the Fox exchange partner universities.
- Audit classes and attend workshops and conferences at their host university in order to become acquainted with the academics working in their field.
- Network with faculty, students, and a range of organizations to create new opportunities and important practical experiences.

For more information and details on the application process,
please visit foxfellowship.yale.edu

YALE FOX INTERNATIONAL FELLOWSHIP

The goal of the Fox International Fellowship is to enhance mutual understanding between the peoples of the United States and other countries by promoting international scholarly exchanges and collaborations among the next generation of leaders.

We seek applicants whose work will contribute to problem-focused, practical solutions and who focus their research on these designated fields: international relations and global affairs, law, environmental policy, public health, social sciences, economics, political science, business and finance, management, and contemporary history, as such research relates to the world's peace and prosperity.

YALE FOX INTERNATIONAL FELLOWSHIP

at the Whitney and Betty MacMillan Center for International and Area Studies at Yale

Henry R. Luce Hall, Suite 306

New Haven, CT 06520

For more information and details on the application process,
please visit foxfellowship.yale.edu